Lady Vees make history

Soccer squad nabs first home play-off win in LU history

Wednesday October 26th marked a very special day for the Lady Vees soccer program as they hosted their first ever home playoff game. And the Lady Vees would not disappoint as they came away with a 1-0 nail-biter win versus the Guelph Gryphons.

Both teams fought to stay warm as the conditions were less than welcoming, but as the game got going so did the intensity of the play.

Play began rather slow for both teams, with each team having some opportunities. But it was not until the second half when the Lady Vees increased their pressure and kept the majority of the play in the Guelph end.

It was in the 44th minute of the second half that the Lady Vees found the back of the net. Erica Duczeminski (Sudbury, Ont.) put a ball on net that the Guelph keeper couldn't handle and with a scramble in front rookie Lady Vee Krista Pantin (Mississauga, Ont.) put it in.

The Lady Vees played out the remainder of the game with cautious optimism as they controlled the defensive end and continued to send Guelph balls back into the midfield, anxiously awaiting the referees final whistle.

"We did not play exceptionally well today, we scrambled at times for control," said Head Coach Rob Gallo, after the game. "I am happy we came away with the win, but we will need to be

The Lady Vees will play their next playoff game on the road in St. Catharines on Saturday October 29th at 1 p.m. versus the Brock Badgers who finished 1st in the south division.

The Lady Vees came away with a 1-1 tie on September 25th when they played Brock at home.

The Lady Vees who finished 2nd in the north division will be more than ready for the challenge.

Alas, the stars were just not aligned for the team to advance any further. In the Ontario University Athletics (OUA) quarter finals, the Brock Badgers defeated the Lady Vees 1-0.

After a fortunate goal by the Badgers in the second half, they simply shut down the Voyageur

SGA/AGE voters have spoken

BY NEIL ZACHARJEWICZ

The results are in, and Lindsay Wye has been declared the winner of the SGA/AGE bi-election for the position of VP-Issues.

Wye, who posted the best results at all four of the polls, netted 285 votes for the victory. The runner-up was Kevin Mason, with 192 votes, followed by Neil Pearson and Jordan Glass with 96 and 87 votes respectively.

Of the 285 votes received for Wye, she grabbed 25 at the Phys Ed poll, 31 at Science II, 100 on Student Street, and 129 at the Great Hall. Mason received 10 at Phys Ed, 30 at Science II (only one behind Wye), 44 on Student Street, and 108 at the Great Hall. A total of four people voted for Pearson at Phys Ed, who received 14 votes at Science II, 17 on Student Street, and 96 at the Great Hall. Of the votes received for Glass, two came from Phys Ed, six from Science II, 41 from Student Street, and another 87 from the Great Hall poll.

Unfortunately, only an estimated 13.5 percent of the eligible voters cast a ballot in the bi-election, short of the 15 percent needed for quorum. As such, the position of VP-Issues will have to be filled by appointment. However, the SGA/AGE Executive was expected to put forward a motion at its meeting of November 2nd to appoint Wye to the position of VP-Issues, based on the outcome of the bi-election. At that point, it would be up to the SGA/AGE Board of Directors to make the final decision as to who will assume the position.

Despite the fact that she will have to wait to see if the board appoints her to the position, Wye was thrilled by the results.

"I'm really excited, and I am looking forward to working with students to make student life as good as possible," Wye stated. Should she receive the approval of the board, Wye said one of her first tasks would be to review the initiatives undertaken by Shailagh Keaney, the VP-Issues in 2004/05, to see what worked and what needs work. She said she would look to continue some of those initiatives, as well as implement some of the ideas proposed to her by the various students she spoke with during the course of her campaign.

Laurentian students encouraged to 'Leave the Pack Behind'

BY NEIL ZACHARJEWICZ
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

A new initiative is being introduced on campus to assist student looking to butt out.

The new program, 'Leave the Pack Behind,' has been introduced at a variety of campuses across Canada, but is only now arriving in Northern Ontario.

"It's a comprehensive tobacco initiative for smoking cessation, as well as for providing a smoke-free environment," stated Sherri Whitehead, research coordinator at Brock University, where the initiative is based. "The program is for smokers, ex-smokers and non-smokers. We are for all students on campus."

'Leave the Pack Behind' offers services for those looking to quit, become involved in smoking policies on campus, and to provide knowledge and empowerment to students on campus.

"To say you have a non-smoking policy on campus is just the first step," she stated. However, she said she was pleased to learn during her visit to Laurentian that no smoking products were sold on campus.

"It's wonderful," Whitehead said.

"We are not here to force people to quit. We are not here to ask people to quit. We are here as an information service and we are here to provide peer and clinical support," explained Tricia Larose, Laurentian's campus program coordinator. "Our resources and information are all-inclusive."

The 'Leave the Pack Behind' initiative began in the spring of 2000, when the government recognized the need for a smoking program for young people between the ages of 20 to 24. While there were already programs for teens and adults, there was nothing in place to address the needs of this age group. So, a program was put together involving university administration, faculty, and public health services in the Niagara region. The program received funding from the Ministry of Health and Health

Canada, and today is expanding to campuses across the country.

"We have just been given the funding to break into the North this year," Larose pointed out. Laurentian, Lakehead University and Sault College will be among the first participants in the North, she noted, and plans call for the program to expand further. Whitehead pointed out the program has already been active at Nipissing University for the last two years.

Laurentian students can expect to see a display booth on campus approximately twice a week, set up at different locations around the university so as to reach as many students as possible. Larose noted students are invited to

LU ladies prove effort equals results

Not that this will likely be a shock to any of you out there, but there are some pretty talented young ladies on this campus these days.

After reviewing the sheer volume of news for this week's issue, I was a bowled over with all that you ladies have been accomplishing in recent weeks.

The SGA/AGE's only female candidate for the position of VP-Issues, Lindsay Wye, campaigned hard to win the bi-election, and now it looks like she will be appointed to the position.

Erica Robinson, coordinator of the Meal Exchange program organized an enormously successful Trick or Eat program this year, drawing in twice as many volunteers as last year. Congratulations.

In sports, ladies teams have been on a proverbial tear. The Lady Vees Cross Country team is headed off to the CIS championships, a national level competition. Best of luck, ladies. Then we have our Lady Vees Soccer team making history by hosting their first ever play-off game. Not only that, but they proceeded to win it and advance to the semifinals. What an amazing effort. The Lady Vees swim squad had a masterful performance recently, sinking the hopes of Waterloo.

Phew! All of these are some pretty impressive feats, and I just thought it was worthy of sending out a salute to all you ladies, regardless of whether your efforts made the pages of Lambda this week or not. Keep it up. You are making this school a better place for all of us.

SGA/AGE offering a full slate of events in the coming weeks

Welcome back! I hope that everyone had a relaxing Reading Week, and that you managed to get at least some reading done. I know that for me, the week before fall break is so stressful that I usually end up taking the week to recuperate and relax, only to realize that I haven't done the work I needed to do, which causes my stress levels to return to where they were when the week started.

Fortunately, the SGA/AGE has a lot of academic events coming up over the next few weeks to help keep you distracted. The first of which is the selection process for the new Dean of Social Sciences and Humanities. The student representatives on the committee have asked for students to be provided with an opportunity to meet with each of the candidates during the selection process. The meeting times are as follows:

- Raoul Etonger-Mayer - Thursday, November 3, 2005 from 11am to 12 noon
- John Isbister - Tuesday, November 8, 2005 from 11am to 12 noon
- John Thorp - Thursday, November 10, 2005 from 11am to 12 noon

It's very important that we come out to these meetings and have an opportunity to meet with the candidates. One of these men may end up as the head of our faculties, so we need to be aware of who they are and how they feel about issues that are important to us. This is a Q&A, so you can feel free to ask questions, or you can just sit in and listen. The meetings will be held in the Student Centre lounge, so it will be a nice relaxing atmosphere that should allow us a great opportunity to get to know the candidates. If you'd like some more information beforehand, or if you can't make the sessions, copies of their CV's are available in the Office of the VP Anglophone Affairs, which is located in L-308 (3rd floor of the Parker Building).

In addition, we will be hosting a meet-and-greet with NDP Education Critic Rosario Marchese. Rosario is an MPP for Trinity-Spadina, and has been very vocal in his support for low tuition fees and his outcry towards the stance the provincial Liberals have taken towards tuition. The McGuinty government recently announced that they will be raising tuition fees next year and are currently in consultations as to how this will be done. As it stands, Ontario students pay the second highest tuition in Canada and the average student debt exceeds $22,000 after graduation, which is the highest in Canada. Rosario has launched a Private Member's Bill that is calling on the provincial Liberals to use the money that will be given to the province by the federal government out of the $1.5 billion earmarked by them for tuition relief.

Rosario will be visiting the Student Centre on Thursday, November 10th, at 12pm to talk about tuition and what the government can do to help ease the financial burden post-secondary education. This discussion will be open to any Laurentian student, and we encourage you to come out and hear what this outspoken advocate for student rights has to say.

Sign up now for LOCS 3-on-3 basketball

The annual LOCS Three-On-Three Basketball Tournament is fast approaching. Registration is currently under way, and will continue until November 7th at 3 pm.

The tournament is a co-ed event, though co-ed teams are not mandatory. Teams are limited to between three and five members.

The tournament will be held on Saturday, November 12th, in the Alphonse Raymond gym (at the French teachers college). The start times have yet to be determined, as they will depend on the number of teams that sign up. Teams will be contacted by LOCS representatives as to what time they will take to the court in advance of the tournament.

For questions with regard to registration or to sign up for a fun weekend of hoops, you can contact LOCS at 675-1151 ext. 1063, or just stop by the LOCS Office, located within the SGA/AGE offices.

Also, be sure to watch the November 17th edition of Lambda for information with regard to our upcoming Christmas party. For all of you who enjoyed the bowling night, this should be just as fun. And for those of you who have not taken in a LOCS event yet this year... shame on you. But more importantly, here is your opportunity. Come on out and enjoy some holiday cheer.

'Treat or Eat' event a spook-tacular success

BY NEIL ZACHARJEWICZ
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Amidst all the ghosts and goblins out on the prowl for Halloween, there were also some giving souls out and about on Monday.

Approximately 35 Laurentian University students took to the streets as part of the 'Trick or Eat' initiative, just one of the programs put on by the Laurentian chapter of Meal Exchange.

"It went really well," suggested Erica Robinson, coordinator for the Laurentian chapter. "We are very happy with the results."

Robinson explained that the students canvassed in New Sudbury, in the area south of Lasalle Boulevard, and in and around Smith's Market. Nearly a week before the big event, the volunteers went door to door with pamphlets explaining all about Meal Exchange and the Trick or Eat program. While children were walking away from homes with bags full of candy, the volunteers were walking away with bags full of supplies for the Laurentian University Food Bank. In fact, the group managed to gather 1,849 pounds of food during the course of the evening.

"People often had bags ready for us when we arrived," Robinson pointed out.

This year marked the third anniversary for the Trick or Eat program at Laurentian. Robinson explained that the first year, someone conducted the program on their own, on behalf of the SGA/AGE. Last year, the number of volunteers grew to 15, and this year the number of volunteers more than doubled.

According to its website, Meal Exchange is a student-founded, grassroots, registered charity organized to address local hunger by mobilizing the talent and passion of students. Since 1993, the program has helped students on 45 campuses across Canada facilitate the student donation of over 378,000 meals to address local hunger. This year, over 5000 students from over 34 post-secondary campuses took part in the campaign.

"We hold this event because hunger is actually quite a serious problem in Canada," Robinson explained. "I think it is surprising to people to find out how many people have to go without, and how many people use food banks."

Robinson noted that the event would not have been successful without the efforts of the volunteers and organizations that contributed. She pointed out that Smith's Market contributed fruit platters for the volunteers, and Starbucks provided drinks. As well, Steve's Independent Grocers also contributed 15 shopping carts for the volunteers.

"That was very helpful,"

Robinson added.

Robinson also extended her thanks to the SGA/AGE, as well as the Graduate Student Association (GSA), for their assistance with running the event.

While the Trick or Eat program is now complete for 2005, Robinson pointed out that the Laurentian chapter of Meal Exchange is still busy working on a number of other programs. A 'Clear the Shelves' program, which involves students living residence contributing left over food at the end of the school year, is in the works, and Meal Exchange is hoping to implement a 'Skip A Meal' program. The 'Skip A Meal' program, she noted, is run differently on different campuses, but the general idea of the program is that it would allow students to donate points from their Meal Plan towards food for those in need. This program, she added, is still only in the developmental stage.

Nonetheless, Meal Exchange is always looking for more volunteers, Robinson said. She noted there is always room for more people on the Laurentian chapter's executive.

"You can get as involved as you want," she said. "We are especially looking for first year students to get involved."

Anyone interested in taking part in the Laurentian chapter's efforts is invited to contact the group by email at lul@mealexchange.com.

Open "Thank You" Letter to all LU on- and off- Campus Students: 2005 Collective Agreement Negotiations

NOVEMBER 1, 2005

THE 2005 COLLECTIVE AGREEMENT NEGOTIATIONS WERE RECENTLY SUCCESSFULLY CONCLUDED AFTER SEVERAL MONTHS WITH THE RATIFICATION VOTES OF BOTH THE FACULTY AND THE EMPLOYER, THE LU BOARD OF GOVERNORS. THE SETTLEMENT RESULTED IN A LANDMARK AGREEMENT WHICH BRINGS LU FACULTY MORE IN LINE WITH THE COLLECTIVE AGREEMENTS OF OTHER ONTARIO UNIVERSITIES; THE PRIMARY OBJECTIVE OF THE LUFA NEGOTIATING TEAM. THE AGREEMENT WILL HELP ENABLE THE FACULTY TO CONTINUE TO DELIVER THE HIGH QUALITY LEARNING EXPERIENCE EXPECTED BY YOU, THE CURRENT STUDENTS OF LU AND ALSO FUTURE STUDENTS.

THE NEGOTIATIONS WERE LONG AND DIFFICULT AS EVIDENCED BY THE NECESSITY FOR THE SERVICES OF A CONCILIATOR AND TWO MEDIATORS; ALL USED UNDER THE TERMS OF THE ONTARIO LABOUR RELATIONS LEGISLATION. WE RECOGNIZE THAT THE SITUATION LED TO A GREAT DEAL OF ANXIETY ON THE PART OF YOURSELVES AND YOUR FAMILIES REGARDING YOUR CONTINUING ON- AND OFF-CAMPUS STUDIES THROUGH LAURENTIAN. YOUR CONCERNS WERE HEIGHTENED BY THE FACT THAT THE USE OF CONCILIATION AND MEDIATION SEVERELY LIMITED THE ASSOCIATION'S ABILITY TO COMMUNICATE MORE EXTENSIVELY WITH YOU.

IN SPITE OF YOUR CONCERNS ALL MEMBERS OF LUFA, AND, PARTICULARLY, THE LUFA BOARD OF DIRECTORS, NEGOTIATING COMMITTEE AND THE STRIKE ACTION COMMITTEE ARE GREATLY IMPRESSED BY YOUR SUPPORT AND PATIENCE; BOTH ON AN INDIVIDUAL BASIS AND THROUGH YOUR STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS, THE SGA, THE AEF, THE GSA AND THE ALPS WHO ALL, BOTH PUBLICLY AND PRIVATELY, EXPRESSED SOLID SUPPORT FOR THE ASSOCIATION THROUGHOUT THE NEGOTIATIONS. YOUR SUPPORT HAS BEEN INSTRUMENTAL IN ENABLING THE NEGOTIATORS OF BOTH SIDES TO ACHIEVE THE AGREEMENT THAT WAS REACHED.

All it took was one goal for the Laurentian Lady Vees Soccer Team to down the Guelph Gryphons squad and win their first ever play-off game in front of a hometown crowd. offence for the remainder of the game.

After tying earlier in the season 1-1, the Lady Vees wanted to keep their winning streak alive and show Brock why they deserved to be in the playoffs.

The first half of the game showed an even level of talent between the two teams. Both teams were battling for the ball creating offensive pressure, but came up empty on the scoreboard.

The only goal of the game came in the second half when a Badger free kick from outside the box hit a Voyageur player and went into the net. As a result, Tracy Wilson (Burlington, Ont.) was rewarded her first goal of the playoffs.

After the goal, the Lady Vees attempted to retaliate with a goal of their own, but the Badger defense would not let them pass.

"Brock played a great game. We played hard, but just could not measure up to them," said Head Coach Rob Gallo.

Coach Gallo had 6 rookies on the field today and although he is upset the season was cut short, he remains optimistic about next season.

"All season, our rookies have been helping out the team. Combined with the veterans, we will come back stronger next year," said Gallo.

Despite the loss, the Lady Vees had an outstanding season finishing the regular season with a 5-2-3 record earning second place in the OUA North division and hosting their first ever home playoff game.

Kashechewan Aid and Awareness Gathering to be held at Laurentian University

BY LAURA THERRIEN
LAMBDA CONTRIBUTOR

In response to the contaminated water crisis in Kashechewan, members of the City of Greater Sudbury will be hosting a benefit concert at Laurentian University. The Kashechewan Aid and Awareness Gathering will take place at the Fraser Auditorium on Friday, November 4, at 7p.m.

The event will feature storytellers, musicians, artists from the Sudbury's Native community, as well as special guests speaking on the subject of drinking water. The cost of admissions is $15 and can be purchased at Black Cat Too, Laurentian University's Native Student Center or at the door. All proceeds will go to the aid of evacuees in their time of need.

Over two weeks ago, the Cree community near James Bay learned that their drinking water was tainted with levels of E. coli bacteria. Since then, over a quarter of Kashechewan residents have been relocated to Sudbury, Timmins and Cochrane, while another 250 people have been airlifted out of the reserve and shipped to Ottawa because of medical problems associated with the reserve's contaminated water supply.

The amount of time residents of the reserve will be displaced is still unknown, however government officials say it will probably be another two to three weeks before they can return they can return to their homes.

Kashechewan has been under boil advisory for the last two years and is only one of 51 Ontario First Nation communities that are required to boil their water.

The Native community of Sudbury has organized The Kashechewan Aid and Awareness Gathering to create awareness on the importance of potable water sources and the living conditions in many First Nation communities in Canada. Pine Needle Blankets Productions and the Whitefish Lake First Nation invites Sudbury residents to welcome the evacuees to the area by participating in a night of learning and entertainment in the spirit of sharing.

'Crimes of the Heart' set to debut at Thornloe University Theatre

Laurentian University's Theatre Arts Program at Thornloe College eagerly welcomes you to join them for the darkly comic play Crimes of the Heart by Beth Henley.

Directed by Theatre Arts Chair Valerie Senyk, the story entails a bizarre reuniting of three sisters who have all been leading very different lives. While trying to deal with a present crisis that threatens to repeat traumas of the past, they struggle to understand each other and the men who have influenced their lives. After many twists and surprises, they find the means to take hold of their futures and heal their hearts.

The cast features veteran theatre students Sarah Gartshore (The Crackwalker) and Stephanie Woolger (The Tempset), along with four other talented young actors, who have been enthusiastic about their roles.

Their performances promise to capture you and tickle your funnybone.

As director Valerie Senyk says: "Watching these characters is almost like watching your sister or your best friend – you think you know them well, but then they surprise you!"

With cast and crew working diligently, this production will run from November 12-20 and 23-26 at the Thornloe University Theatre. All shows are at 8 pm, except for the 2 pm matinee on November 20.

Tickets are $10 Adults and $5 Students, and can be purchased at Black Cat Too, Laurentian University Bookstore, or at Thornloe's Main Office. To reserve call 673-1730 ext. 0.

The swimming season is under way. On October 24th, the Laurentian swim teams wrapped up their first major competition of the year at the Olympic Gold Pool. The Lady Vees sank the Waterloo Warriors by a final score of 180 – 129. The Aqua Vees, however, fell to the Warriors by a final score of 207 – 112.

Lady Vees X-Country team headed to CIS Championships

The Lady Vees Cross Country team competed in the OUA Championships on Saturday October 29th, and were successful in accomplishing their season goal.

Strong team running helped a gutsy Laurentian Women's Cross-Country Running team post a sixth-place finish at the Ontario University Championships.

Contested on Kingston's picturesque Fort Henry field, it was Laurentian's second-best finish in school history and an improvement over last year's ninth-place position.

Having suffered a slew of pre-season injuries, Laurentian was a dark horse in the 15-team championship-four of the squads they beat had finished ahead of them in previous races, including York, ranked top-ten in the country coming into the event.

"The girls did a great job of helping each other during the race," said Head Coach Dick Moss. "And all seven runners posted a personal best for the course. Lindsay McNicoll, (Capreol, Ont.) was almost a minute faster than she was here only two weeks ago.

"It has been a difficult season, because of injuries and illnesses, and some of the girls have raced sparingly," said Moss. "For example, this was only the second race of the year for Leila Angrand. She was rusty, but she'll improve quickly once she back into a regular program."

The Lady Vees will compete in the CIS Championships in Halifax on November 12th the meet times have yet to be set.
